F O R E W O R D

At 7:30 o'clock in the morning of November 11, 1902, died John R. Fountain, 93, in the home where he had lived for nearly seventy years, and where all his children and some grandchildren had been born.

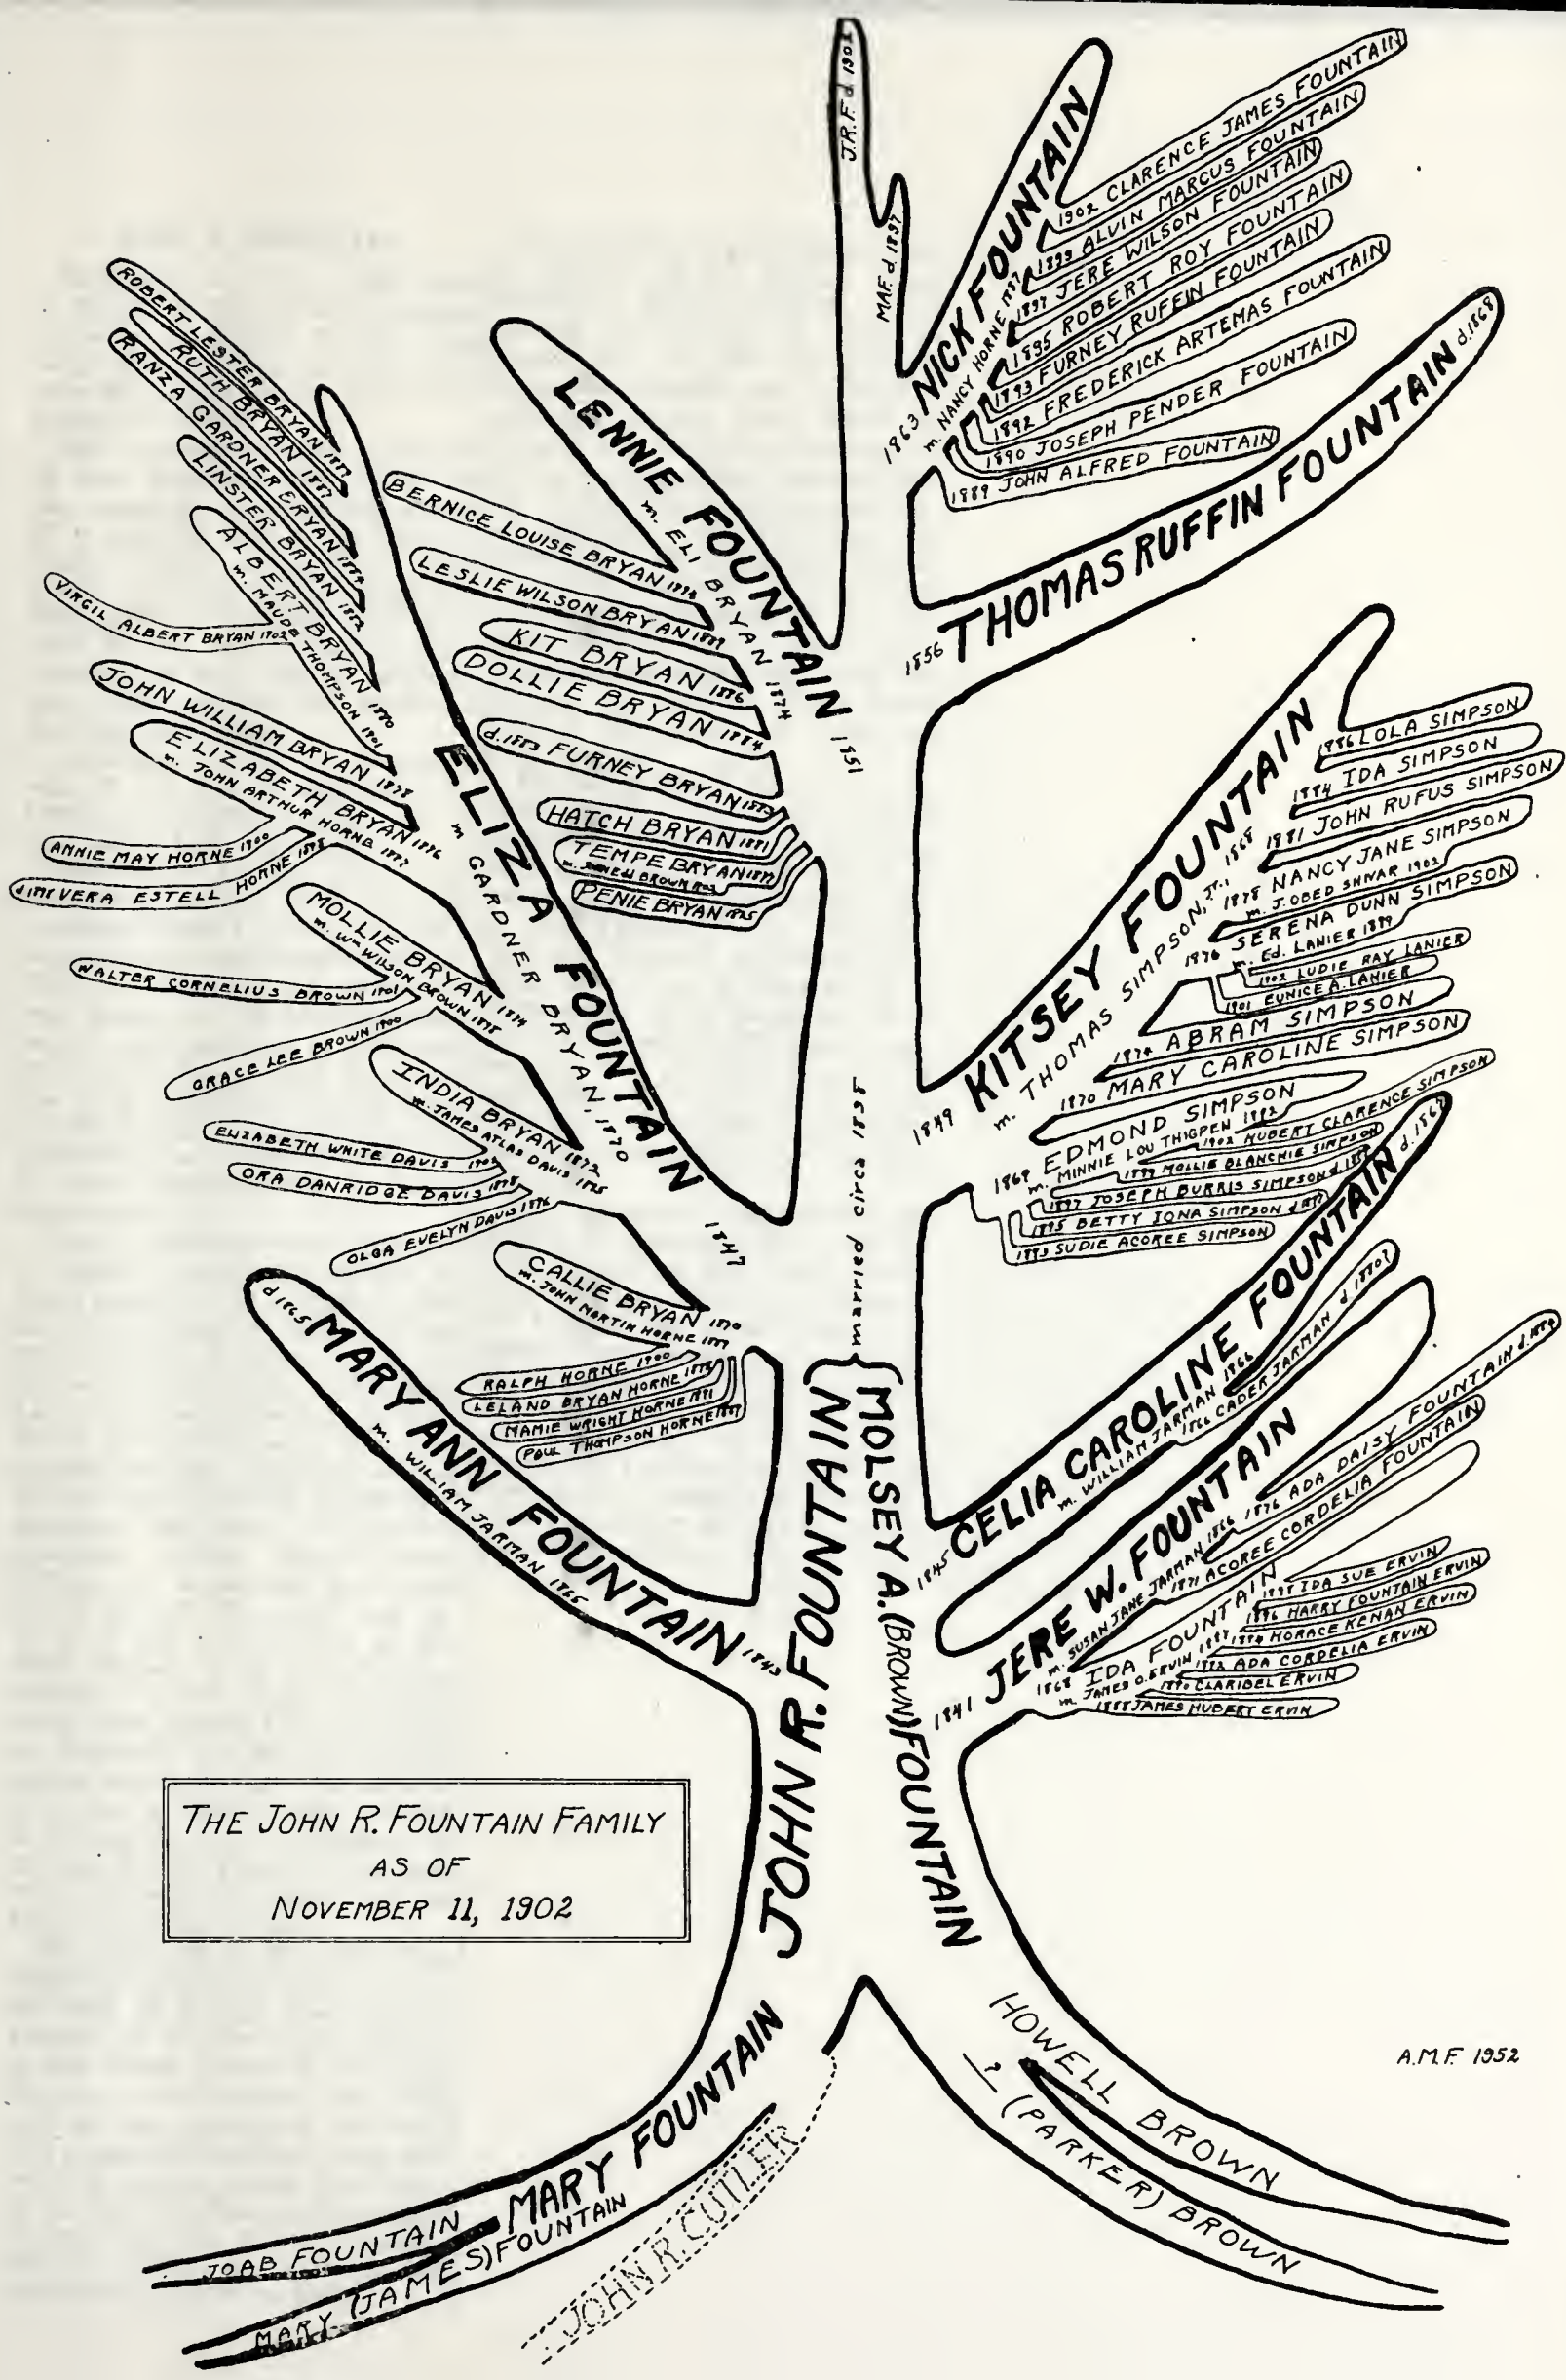

His span of years reached out so far that even the oldest of his neighbors could not remember him at less than middle life, possessed of things of substance, and already fixed in high respect by all who passed his way.

Now, at the end of fifty years, the time is fit that we should make this count of those who share his blood and common bonds of heritage.

JOHN R. FOUNTAIN

Richlands, Nov. 11, 1902—John R. Fountain, 93, one of the oldest residents of Onslow County, died early this morning at his home near the Duplin County line at the Lanier postoffice.

The deceased was the grandson of Joab Fountain, first settler of that name in the area and holder of a grant of land in the edge of Duplin County obtained by royal grant in 1773. Joab's daughter Mary (Polly) Fountain, mother of John R., was born in this frontier location, as were several brothers and sisters, during and after the Revolutionary War.

Paternally, John R. Fountain was of the line of one John R. Cutler, local schoolmaster said to have come from Connecticut.

Disinherited because of the circumstances of his birth, John R. Fountain lived a harsh childhood and received little formal education. Before reaching the age of ten, he was bound out as an indentured servant each summer to work and live among the colored slaves on the Gregory plantation near here; but by the age of fourteen he had persuaded his mother to allow him to work independently for their joint support.

Upon attainment of his majority in 1830, he had saved enough to begin payments on a tract of land at the southwestern fringe of the vast holdings of John A. Avirett, whose central estate, "The Rich Lands" at the headwaters of New River, gave its name to this community and also gave the setting for the book "The Old Plantation" published last year by Avirett's grandson, Bishop James Battle Avirett, as an answer to "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The tract was located at the eastern side of the Back Swamp ford and footway crossing on the Joab Fountain public road leading from Hallsville to Richlands. He and his mother moved into their log cabin here in 1834, and in 1838 he was married to Molsey A. Brown, daughter of the late Howell Brown by his first wife, a former Miss Parker, of the Chinquapin community.

The outbreak of the Civil War found him past middle-age, and at the head of a large and growing family; but he offered his services to the armed forces of the Confederacy, and remained at home only at the urgings of his wife, who suggested that their oldest son, not yet twenty years old, serve in his stead. It thus happened that he was with his family throughout the conflict, and fathered one additional son, born in 1863.

He was for the past fifteen years a member of the Muddy Creek Primitive Baptist Church. After joining by baptism in 1887, he found that he had unknowingly identified himself with a divisive minority faction from which he quickly withdrew for re-baptism by his son-in-law, Elder Gardner Bryan. He lived by the strictest of moral principles, and attributed his longevity to his abstinence from all intoxicants and tobacco. He refused to consult physicians or to take medicine from them, even going to the extent of asking his family not to give him medicine if he should become incompetent to make his own decisions.

Preceding him in death were his wife, who died five years ago; two daughters, Mary Ann and Caroline, both of whom had been married in succession to William Jarman; and a son, Thomas Ruffin Fountain, who was killed in a shotgun accident at the age of twelve. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Gardner Bryan, Mrs. Thomas Simpson, Jr., and Mrs. Eli Bryan; two sons, Jere W. Fountain and Nick Fountain; thirty-five grand-children; and twenty-five great-grandchildren.

In accordance with community custom, no funeral services will be held. Neighbors will assist survivors tomorrow afternoon in placing the body in the family plot, at a point chosen many years ago by Mr. Fountain for himself and wife, and marked by heart-pine headpieces hewn and inscribed by his own hand. The local school did not meet today; students will be dismissed tomorrow at dinner-time to go to the burying.

To the foot of that shaft I shall send my children's children!

To All John R. Fountain Descendants

Greetings:

Herewith you will find the list of John R. Fountain offspring as we have planned it for the fiftieth anniversary of his death. We hope you like it. We hope especially that this modest publication will be a means of further strengthening and cementing the bonds of kinship that have kept us together for much more than a century.

DATA---You will notice that information given is curtailed somewhat, in the interest of saving space. Omitted are such matters as exact dates of birth, marriage, and death, as well as the places of these occurrences; omitted likewise are names of parents of husbands and wives, all of which information is fully compiled in the basic papers we have made up. War records are given as a matter of interest, and are based on personal memory plus records kept during World War II and in the post-war draft. Somewhat fuller information is given for members of the first generation, with exact dates, causes of early death, and the like. Accidental deaths are likewise noted, all the way through the list.

ARRANGEMENT---Material is arranged in the order of age of the corresponding member of the first generation, each member's descendants being listed completely before taking up descendants of the next group in line. That is, all of Jere W. Fountain's descendants are listed before taking up those of Mary Ann, Caroline, or Eliza. By comparing the list to the picture of the family tree, you will see that we complete all the branches, twigs, and buds of one main limb before taking up the next limb. Main divisions are indicated by Roman numerals, as I. Jere W. Fountain; II. Mary Ann (Fountain) Jarman.....VII. Thomas Ruffin Fountain; VIII. Nick Fountain.

SUBDIVISIONS---Second-generation descendants (grandchildren) are indicated by capital letters, as A, B, C, etc.; third-generation descendants are marked by Arabic numerals, as 1, 2, 3, etc.; fourth-generation descendants use small letters, as a, b, c, etc.; and fifth-generation descendants (great-great-great grandchildren) use parenthetic Arabic numerals, as (1), (2), (3), etc.; the sixth generation has not yet started, but may use parenthetic small letters if the study is continued. Descendants of any generation are placed directly underneath their parents, and the spacing indicates the entry of another generation, as do the numbers. This system of numbering, incidentally, may be set up as a permanent index, if the family so wishes, and everyone will thus have an individual serial number not duplicated anywhere else in the family. Thus, Mrs. J. A. Horne (Lizzie Bryan) is number IV-D, indicating that she is a fourth branch on the fourth limb. Later generations will simply add to the index numerals; for example, Alvis Whitted, Jr., oldest fifth generationer, is number I-A-2-b-(1)---Jere Fountain; Ida Fountain Ervin; Claribel Ervin Whitted; Alvis M. Whitted; Alvis M. Whitted, Jr.

STATISTICS---In 1902, John R. Fountain had 71 descendants, 62 of whom were still living. These have grown to well over 500, more than 200 of them in the Elisa Fountain (Mrs. Gardner Bryan) family. In a period of 111 years, only 61 deaths have occurred, counting those caused by old age as well as those of infancy and accident. The spacing of generations is also interesting. Jere Fountain, 1841, was 25 years old at the birth of Cader Jarman, 1866, first grandchild; Cader Jarman would have been 22 years old at the birth of Hubert Ervin, 1888; Hubert Ervin was 24 years old at the birth of Graham Whitted, 1912; and Graham Whitted was 28 when Alvis Whitted, Jr., was born in 1940. Thus, the sixth generation should start about 1965 or 1967 among the Whitteds or Howards, though the opening may be delayed somewhat because the oldest heirs in both families are males, who tend to breed less rapidly. Even more interesting is the increasing spread of each generation, as it appears and overlaps the preceding one. First generation itself, Jere Fountain, 1841, to Nick Fountain, 1863, covered nearly 22 years; second generation, Cader Jarman, 1866, to C. James Fountain, 1902, covered 36 years; third generation, Hubert Ervin, 1888, to James Garreth Fountain, 1948, covers sixty years; fourth and fifth generations are still in progress. Significantly, the youngest children in this list are in the fourth rather than in the fifth generation, grandchildren to Leslie Bryan and Ruth Bryan Banks, respectively. More significantly, no intermarriage has yet occurred among John R. Fountain descendants, despite the passage of long periods and the entry of five generations. The several individuals bearing the name of Fountain, outside the Nick Fountain group, have received the name from ancestors in other branches of the original Joab Fountain family. The writer hopes that intermarriage will not occur for many years yet to come.

DISTRIBUTION---The writer hopes that every living descendant will obtain a copy of this listing, and will preserve it for future record. Some suggestions for this aim are included on a separate cost-statement attached to these papers. A copy is to be deposited in the state archives here in Raleigh, and plans are now to send copies to the state library, and to the libraries of the University of Chapel Hill, the Woman's College in Greensboro, and State College here, Wake Forest College, and Duke University. The county library at Jacksonville may have a copy also. If the material is copyrighted, two copies will go automatically to the Library of Congress. The writer hopes also to send several copies to Fountain name-bearers of other states who have expressed an interest in the project.

FUTURE POSSIBILITIES---The accumulation of information, documents, and tradition of the family makes the writer believe that this material deserves the dignity and permanency of a treatment more complete than the small work submitted herewith. He hopes that this work will enlist the interest and support of the family enough to justify the publication of a full-fledged biography of John R. Fountain, with some account of his forebears preceding and during their settlement in Duplin and Onslow Counties. Such a work, in standard print with a durable cloth binding, should be an accomplishment of which we could all be very proud, and could serve as an inspiration and guide for others who consider making a similar study of their own family. A good time for this book would be the sesqui-centennial of John R. Fountain's birth, 1959; or perhaps a better time would be the beginning of the sixth generation a few years later. In the event that the present writer should die or become incapacitated before such a study could be completed, it is his wish that his present records should be deposited in the state archives, and, if copies can be made, they be deposited in the various libraries above-mentioned.

OTHER LOCAL FOUNTAINS---The writer is indebted to Claribel Ervin (Mrs. G. B. Whitted, Sr.) for permission to examine the papers prepared by genealogist Henry DeLong Fountain, New Jersey bachelor who used to visit her grandfather. His listing of the Joab Fountain descendants as of 1900, though incomplete, has been of great help in gaining background for this study. During the past summer, this writer visited the scenes in New Jersey and in Brooklyn where Henry DeL. Fountain lived, but was able to get little information about him. The widow of his employer in northern New Jersey still lives, and remembers "Harry" Fountain quite pleasantly, but knew little of his background, or of any additional papers he may have left. We are now in correspondence with Fountains in nearby New Jersey towns, in an effort to trace any further matter about him. He died about 1905. His thesis was that all eastern Carolina Fountains were originally of the Huguenot diaspora following the revocation of the Edict of Nantes in 1685. Though he was never able to establish direct connection between that tragedy and the presence of the Fountains here, his thesis may well have been correct, as Fountains were pretty well scattered over Virginia and eastern Carolina within a generation after that date. Three of them were old enough to serve in the Onslow County militia in 1754.

FOUNTAIN COAT-OF-ARMS---A professional researcher and dealer in such things, down in San Antonio, Texas, has sent us a Fountain coat-of-arms, with full authentication and instructions for coloring. The temptation to put it into this booklet, even at the price of hand-coloring each individual copy, was so great that we prepared the plate for printing. But a better judgement caused us to drop the idea, since one is not supposed to indulge himself in coats-of-arms unless he can prove direct ancestry in the original family of the design; moreover, an illegitimate ancestor anywhere along the line is likely to queer the deal, since genealogical researchers do not consider their work finished until they have found who married whom in every generation. And, you know, sometimes who just forgot to marry whom quite quickly enough. Anyway, this coat-of-arms is of a Scottish family. Its authenticity checks squarely with sources here, which also list two British families having their own designs. The Latin motto of the Scottish Fountains was Praeclarius quo Difficilius; freely translated, it means "More Outstanding in Whatever (is) More Difficult." Not bad. Maybe we are Scottish instead of French, after all.

POLLY FOUNTAIN---The gravestone pictured in the booklet was recently erected in the presence of available descendants in the several branches of the family, after the grave had lain 25 years unmarked by more than a pine knot. We tried to say something of her life, including: The one brief moment in which the urgings of her heart and body swept aside the wiser counsels of her mind and soul became a burden of much gravity in all her remaining years. But not for one instant did it dwarf her mother-love for her unwanted son, nor cause her hands to slow their service to him. And now, in the wider view of nearly fifteen decades, we may all afford to stop and do her honor.

As do we all,

Alvin M. Fountain

To All Descendants of John R. Fountain

Greetings:

The tombstones for the five remaining unmarked graves in the old Fountain cemetery are completed and ready for installation. They are fully paid for, ~~and~~ thanks to all of you who have had such a fine part in this little project, ~~possibly~~ entered upon with more of heart than mind. To those of you old enough to know of these things, we hope they will be a source of satisfaction in the performance of a duty that has been neglected for nearly ninety years; to the younger members of the family, we hope they will be a part of the group consciousness that ought to grow greater instead of a smaller as time goes on.

Since this has been a family effort, we should like to have every member present if possible at the time of installation. Such a gathering could provide not only the actual participation in the work, but also the little visit among ourselves that we ought to begin having anyway. A graveyard may not be a suitable place for a family reunion; but this once I think it to be most fitting. The bonds that link us together are in every instance the memories of great souls long since departed. We may well do honor to those memories before we talk too much of the present or the future.

On Sunday, September 13, at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon, I plan to be at the cemetery, and will welcome any and all members of the family who can possibly be present. Those living in the community should find no inconvenience in coming, and those who live a long way off may be able to take just one more day of vacation and stop off with relatives in the neighborhood. Let us all come.

we have perhaps been a little remiss in these latter days in keeping up with the family doings, especially in the armed services; but so far as we know, few if any of the members in the services have been sent into actual war areas. we should have accurate information on these things; all of you can help in keeping up with it. Likewise, the marriages and new babies ought to be properly recorded. We've heard rumors of expectancy in several branches of the family, but are quite too modest to make reports until information is actually released.

This summer has been quite a busy one, with many long trips and a bunch of short ones totaling nearly twenty thousand miles, mostly on professional and church duties; but I have managed to make a few family calls along the road. while a lay student at Union Theological Seminary in New York, I took time out to look up Louise (Ervin) McCulloch, whose husband, Dr. T. L. McCulloch, is a psychologist on the staff of New York's Letchworth Village, a rambling mental institution up the Hudson River, across from Sing Sing. Though she has had some trouble with her eyesight, Louise carries on quite well. One daughter is about grown, and the other coming right along.

Another pleasant visit was to Dorris Davis (via India Bryan) at his new home in Oakboro. He does well in a little grocery business in which the whole family helps. Not many months previously I had visited the other four Davis children who have settled in the area around Keysville and Victoria, in Virginia. Liza Davis, Mrs. Reuben King, lives at Pink Hill, out from Winston, where I drop by occasionally. Among the Simpson descendants, one of Nannie's grandsons and one of Edmond's live here in Raleigh, and I see them once in awhile. Another of Edmond's, via Murphey, is in school here at the college. And I visit from time to time Albert Bryan's grandson, Virgil Humphrey, at the sanatorium in Wilson.

Copies of our family book are now on deposit in libraries here, at Chapel Hill, at Duke, Wake Forest, and at Woman's College in Greensboro. Even the New York Public Library has one in its genealogy room, for which I have a nice letter of appreciation. Several friends outside the Fountain lineage, such as Gammy Creevy Lookey, Luzette Fountain Murphey, and some of the Pitt-edge-corn County Fountains, have received copies. Even the Daughters of the American Revolution Librarian in Florida has asked for a copy. we are happy about the reception it has gained.

Shall we see you on September 13, at 3:00 P.M.?

D E A T H S

The end of the way has come for three of the John R. Fountain grandchildren and two of the great grandchildren since the issue of the family record in 1952.

Grandchildren Dunnie Simpson Lanier, Penie Bryan, and Albert Bryan had all gone well beyond their allotted threescore-and-ten, and had met life's expected and unexpected conditions in the manner we had learned to look for in them. Their passage brings to near the halfway mark the going of all that generation who reached maturity. Possibly most noteworthy of the three was the life of Penie Bryan, who, despite infirmities of forty years ago which would have taken away many with lesser calm and assurance, nevertheless lived to see herself the oldest among all the descendants.

Great grandchildren Horace Ervin and Mamie Horne were taken away thus out of turn by man's as yet unconquered malady. But they, like all the rest, have met with fortitude the time of death as they had met the fulness of a life well lived.

For all of them, it might have been that Avon's bard once said:

"Cowards die many times before their deaths:

The valiant never taste of death but once."

Shakespeare, Julius Caesar, 1599

1. Grandchildren

SERENA DUNN (Dunnie) SIMPSON LANIER July 31, 1876--November 17, 1953

"Happy he

With such a mother! Faith in womankind

Beats with his blood, and trust in all things high

Comes easy to him----"

Tennyson, The Princess, 1847

PENIE BRYAN April 19, 1875--November 20, 1953; Richlands, N. C.

"Homeward serenely she walked, with God's benediction upon her:

When she had passed, it seemed like the ceasing of exquisite music."

Longfellow, Evangeline, 1847

ALBERT BRYAN February 24, 1880--April 12, 1954; Richlands, N. C.

"----being weary for a moment, he lay down by the wayside, and using his burden for a pillow, fell into that dreamless sleep---"

Ingersoll, Tribute to his Brother, 1879

2. Great grandchildren

HORACE KEMAN ERVIN March 9, 1894--April 15, 1954; Tampa, Fla.

"---no weakness, no contempt,

Milton, Samson Agonistes, 1671

MAMIE WRIGHT HORNE October 4, 1891--May 28, 1954; Washington, D. C.

Up across Life's endless After,

Timeless Time's eternal sweep,

Stars shall dance her merry laughter;

She, nor they, would have us weep.

Errata and Omissions:

After checking proof of pages 9 and 10, family doings, we find we made two or three absent-minded omissions in our whirling geography which wound up at the old home. STOP HERE, read on through the last pages, and then come back and pick up these items. Thanks, and we're sorry.

(1) Bernice Bryan Fountains's son Winfred is in Tulsa, Oklahoma; electrician, expectant. (2) Dolly Bryan Horne's daughter Jennie Mae (Mrs. Edwin D. Wells, Jr.) lives near Teachey, which is near Rose Hill, if you get what we mean. (3) Leon Shivar's daughter, Nancy Maxine (Mrs. Milton Parker) and her husband have moved from Goldsboro to Chinquapin, just west of the school building. (4) Tom Shivar and family have moved from the John Dave Marshburn place on Half Moon to the Steve Hemby place at Southwest; Mrs. Shivar was one of the Hemby girls. (5) Harry Ervin is with the Whitteds here in Wake County, raises chickens. (6) Ranza Bryan, Southwest, probably claims to have more grandchildren than any other descendant--twenty-eight, with twenty-seven still living and more expected hourly. Son Horace helps a little, with two since the book issue, bringing his total to nine. Any challengers?

Old Parlor Game

Farthest removed from the ancestral scene are descendants Guy Banks, stationed with the Navy in Honolulu, and Millard Darrrell Edwards, with the Army in Germany; details are in the section on "Armed Services." A Canadian resident is J. Bryan Horne, Dollie's boy, who lives on the off-side of Niagara Falls; but he crosses into Buffalo for his work each day.

Next farthest probably is Jerry Fountain, John's boy, also in the armed services in Wyoming. They "expect" to have news for the family soon. In Kansas is India Davis's granddaughter, Mildred Stancill (Mrs. Oliver Davis), while her husband completes work for his Ph.D. degree at the state university at Lawrence. Mildred helps in the library while they work on the degree. They did preliminary work at the University of Virginia, at Charlottesville.

At Madrid, Iowa, and Milwaukee, Wisconsin, are Hatch Bryan's daughters Myrtle (Mrs. Jack Pickell) and Christine (Mrs. R. R. Miller), where their mother recently visited them by airline travel after a stopover with another daughter in Washington, D. C.

In Texas, down at Houston, is Bob Bryan Jr., who is a chemist with the Shell Oil Co. They have a new house and a new baby; see "Births." In Dallas is Bob, Sr., who maintains a painter's trade, but little contact with the family. In nearby Fort Worth is Linster Bryan's daughter Elsie (Mrs. D. P. Robbins), where she has been a student at the Baptist seminary. Her husband is also a ministerial student on a part-time basis. Elsie's sons the Cottle boys, now released from the Navy, are also in Fort Worth; see "School" and "Armed Services."

In Louisiana at Lake Charles is Elwood Bryan, Ranza's boy, on the research staff in chemical catalysts with an oil company. He sports a mustache, a new baby, and a businessman's accent. Near Shreveport, in defense work, is Philip Fountain, Fred's boy, while his wife serves as nurse in the adjacent Army base. Currently both are away, he on maneuvers in Oklahoma, and she while "expecting" among her people at Atlanta.

The Ervin family in Tampa, Florida, has been scattered by the death of Horace. Mrs. Ervin is spending sometime with son Tom in Miami; see "Armed Services." The older son, "E.K." is on the technical staff of American Can in Orlando. Both boys are graduates of Georgia Tech. Victor Bryan, Bob's boy, has left his work with Seaboard Railway at Winter Haven to enter school in Nashville, Tennessee; see "School." Coy Fountain, Lola's boy, spent the winter season looking after the Fountain Tourist Court at Pompano Beach, out of Fort Lauderdale. He came home with plans to help his father pull down the old store and to build a new one; but pressure of business caused him to hurry back to Florida. Maybe we can pull down the old store next summer. Or sometime.

At Columbus, Georgia, is Dunnie Lanier's granddaughter, Jacquelyn Williams (Mrs. T. J. Owen), while her husband is in the army at Fort Benning, recently transferred from Camp Rucker, Ala., where the baby was born. Also at Benning is Hatch Bryan's boy, Durwood; see "Armed Services." In Atlanta, permanent residence is taken up by Edmond Simpson's granddaughter, Madlyn Cottle (Mrs. Geo. S. Donney), where her husband is on the accountancy staff of Kraft Foods.

In Nashville, Tenn., besides Victor Bryan, is another of Dunnie Lanier's granddaughters, Peggy Ann Williams (Mrs. Lois Lee Simpson), while her husband attends the Nashville Motor and Diesel College; see section on "Marriages."

Ohio has four colonies of Fountains. To Cincinnati have recently gone Leon Shivar and his wife, after his arthritic underpinning caused him to give up his barbering in Wallace, N. C. Leon, Jr., since release from the Navy, is a big body-and-fender man there, and a married step-daughter has lived in Cincinnati for several years. Near Dayton, at the Wright-Patterson Field, is Sue Fountain, Furney's daughter (Mrs. Edward F. Fisher), where her husband, recently promoted to Captain in the Air Force, will be stationed for sometime. They live at suburban Fairborn. At Columbus is Ranza Bryan's boy, Cecil, in the Air Force; see "Armed Services." Near Steubenville is Linster Bryan's daughter, Allison-Jean (Mrs. Fred Bay) who has moved out to avoid the city smoke.

Up in New England, Exeter, New Hampshire, is Sue Ervin (Mrs. Jean Pulver), in various scholarly and community activities. Her husband spends much time in Washington, D. C., in several academic and diplomatic duties requiring his extensive knowledge of European languages. Over the line in New York state is Louise Ervin (Mrs. T. L. McCullough), where her husband is on the psychology staff of the Letchworth Village state mental and correctional institution up the Hudson near Haverstraw; see "School."

In the metropolitan area are several. In Brooklyn is John Banks, identified with various shipping interests; see "Births." Furney Fountain, long-time resident of the region, has recently moved from Valley Stream to Lynbrook, Long Island; office supplies. On Manhattan itself is Tempe Bryan Brown's granddaughter, Mary Jo, now secretary to one of the officials of Union Theological Seminary, across from Columbia University. After graduating from Wake Forest last year, Mary Jo worked daughters, Lena (Mrs. Parker Adams) of Netcong, New Jersey, and Margaret (Mrs. Tom Newell) of Westfield, New Jersey.

A little farther out is still another of the Brown girls, Lannie (Mrs. Tom McCrea) in Philadelphia, where her husband is research chemist with the Wyeth Company. At Lancaster, Pa., is Jessie Banks (Mrs. Larry M. Shyver) where her husband, a construction foreman, is completing a large school building contract. They hope to come back south, but will leave the mark of the family in daughter Ruth (Mrs. J. Paul Ashley) who married a local automobile man. Just to prove it, see sections on "School," "Marriages," and "Births."

At Baltimore is Linster Bryan's daughter Ruby (Mrs. Johnnie Mobley) whose husband, in the Merchant Marine, puts in there, and at Norfolk. At Annapolis is R. R. Fountain, Jr., Naval Academy; for special preparatory work some months ago at Annapolis was Dinnie Lanier's granddaughter Regina Thigpen (Mrs. Haywood Fountain) while her husband studied. They are now at Camp Lejeune, Onslow County.

The colony at Washington has been reduced by the retirement of Kit Bryan from government service and the death of Mamie Horne. Kit now has his own home on ancestral grounds, and works full-time in municipal engineering at Jacksonville, N. C. John Fountain, Furney's boy, in the change of administration was shifted from the department of state to that of defense. He and his wife have just occupied a new home in the town's edge at Silver Spring, Maryland. Edmond Simpson's granddaughters Pansy and Jessna married locally and still live in the area; see sections on "Marriage" and "Births." Hatch's Margaret (Mrs. A.H. Almaras) is there also.

At Richmond is Albert Bryan's granddaughter, Margaret Taylor (Mrs. Dale J. Drake), where she has entertained herself by teaching school during the winter. In Danville are Mollie Bryan Brown's granddaughter Betsy Love (Mrs. Billy Squires), and Jere Fountain's daughter Frances (Mrs. Linford Shaw), whose husband is with the Dan River Mills. The India Davis colony in the Keysville-Victoria area consists of Olga, Lizzie, Ruffin, and Woodrow. Olga has been grunting around a little, but is fully recovered since visiting relatives in Onslow County, this state. Lizzie and her husband (R. H. Stancill) work in a department store and on the stock (livestock) market respectively, in Victoria, but live in the tiny village of Lunenburg Courthouse since leaving the farm. Lizzie's second daughter Evelyn (Mrs. C. R. Johnson) also lives in Victoria. Ruffin and Woodrow are developing a stock farm, and work in a nearby textile mill when the notion hits them.

In the Norfolk area lives Linster Bryan's grandson, Randolph Edwards, at Fentress; he works with a truck line, but is a gentleman farmer on the side. see "Births." Over the line in eastern Carolina is Graham Whitted Jr., cashier of the bank at Roxobel. At Rocky Mount is John Fountain, staff member of the East Carolina Training School. Right in town is Ida Baysden's boy Earl, a big dry-cleaning man, who is just finishing a fine new home amid pine trees and jessie-whip vines. At Wilson, Albert Bryan's grandson, Virgil Humphrey, has been released from the sanatorium, minus a panel of ribs and a couple of grunts. He is with his grandmother at the old home.

To Kinston from New Bern come John Bryan's daughter Vivian (Mrs. Alton Brock) secretary to the airport, while her husband does appliance sales for Sears, Roebuck. At Pink Hill is India Davis's daughter 'Lisa (Mrs. Reuben King) where she and her husband support a nice grocery store and a brand new home. Down the road toward Beulaville is Linster Bryan, now completing his recovery from a serious operation at Duke Hospital. He clerks in a local store with one hand and preaches with the other. Over at Cherry Point, Havelock, is his daughter Pauline (Mrs. Bill Whalcy), where her husband has stopped working on the base and has struck out on his own as a building contractor, starting out with his own house. Her son Bobby is a junior at New Bern High School, and does the first-string pitching for the school team. Next year he hopes to enter Wake Forest for the Baptist ministry. Gardner Bryan has left Havelock and is living on Back Swamp, working in Jacksonville.

Hatch Bryan's boy, Garland, has bought a place at Snead's Ferry, is working with a local oil company. Dinnie Lanier's grandson, Linwood Williams, is a Barber at Swansboro.

At the other end of the state, the Charlotte colony has recently been augmented by the entry of Dollie Bryan Horne's boy Graham, who is a machine fixer in a local knitting mill. He has done similar work previously in Chesterfield, S. C., and in Asheville, N. C. The Lizzie Horne Family all eventually gravitated back to that city. Son John is one of the vice-presidents of the Bank of Charlotte; son-in-law Finlayson is president of the Shuman-York Co., air-conditioners. Other members of family also prosperous. In Charlotte are Joe Fountain, Jr., and his mother. He is personnel man with the Efland Department Stores, travels over the system. Out of Charlotte, at Oakboro, is India Davis's boy Dorris, likewise with a grocery store and a new home. It's a habit.

At High Point Roy Fountain does well with a district insurance office. Family news is mostly under "School" and "Armed Services." In Greensboro most of the folks are of the Tempe Bryan Brown Family via daughter Evelyn (Mrs. L. P. Mayrand), whose husband makes vitamin pills now on the national market; see "Marriages" and "Births." In Greensboro also is Mollie Bryan Brown's granddaughter Barbara Brown Sykes, who lives with her mother, Mrs. George Ferguson.

In Burlington most of the Mollie Bryan Brown family still remains, with the inherited taste for textiles and real estate still strong, but now mixed with newspapering and several other things. Grace, Walter, Ted, Annie, Ervin, and "Tut" still live there amid their families. Only new arrival since the book record is Marion Martha Brown; see "Births." In Durham is Doris Horne, Dollie's daughter, secretary in the office of a staff physician, Duke Hospital; see "School."

In Raleigh are students Avin Simpson and Annette Prince; see "School." Moved in from Greenville is John Bryan's daughter Dorothy (Mrs. H. W. Baldwin), whose husband travels for the Electrical Equipment Co., across the street from State College. Edmond Simpson's grandson, Leland Cottle, is a journeyman printer for Edwards and Broughton Printing Co., and Nannie Shivar's grandson, Carlton Edwards, is head bookkeeper for Tip-Top Food Stores. Lower down the county, Fuquay, are the Whitteds; Alvis is an evangelistic minister with the Baptist church; Martha (Mrs. Whitt Mincey) lives near her parents while her husband follows the tobacco markets from Florida to Kentucky, according to the season.

Over in Sampson County is Dollie Bryan Horne's Nannie (Mrs. N. O. McLamb) in a new home near Clinton, where her husband does glass and fabric for cars. Newly moved to the county near the village of Turkey is Dinnie's granddaughter Teresa Thigpen (Mrs. Alton McGee); see "Marriages." And at Fayetteville is her sister Shirley (Mrs. Reuben Mercer), where her husband is completing his course in accountancy at Worth Business College, and doing full-time bookkeeping for the local box factory; see "Births." At Fort Bragg is Dollie's daughter Madeline, secretary, eligible blonde.

In western Duplin the Wallace colony has been depleted somewhat by the removal of the Leon Shivers and Teresa Thigpen, but Ranza Bryan's Russell is still around with the local oil company; and John Shivar is just out of town, with 250 pounds of manhood for drilling wells. At Rose Hill is Dollie Bryan Horne, and across the corner is daughter Grace (Mrs. Murphey Carr) whose husband is local postmaster. To Magnolia has recently moved Betty Lou Simpson, Edmond's granddaughter (Mrs. R. P. Brown) where husband does barbering. In Warsaw are two of Dinnie's grandchildren, Irvin Quinn and Ramona Thigpen (Mrs. W. B. Whitfield, Jr.); and at Kenansville is Edmond's granddaughter Helen Grace (Mrs. Roy D. Brown) whose husband is with the state highway division, and one of Dinnie's grandsons, J. L. Williams, Jr., now commuting to the Du Pont plant out of Kinston.

The colony at Jacksonville and the marine base is getting too large to count, even omitting those who live out and drive in each day. Besides such old-timers as Ida Simpson Baysden's daughters Christine (Mrs. J. B. Scott) and Swannie (Mrs. A. B. Prince), a bunch of the Nick Fountain grandsons are identified with various of the automobile dealers in town, as are also two of Albert Bryan's boys, Albert, Jr., and Sam, who drive in. A grandson, Thomas Albert, is on the police force; and Sheriff Marshall is married to Callie Bryan Horne's granddaughter, Kathleen; law enforcement should be well in hand. Postal services employ Ranza Bryan's son Bill and Albert's grandson-in-law, Edna's husband, Matthew Hamilton. Even the ABC Store has a projector in Cynthia Shivar (Mrs. Charles Barber) who insists that she keeps books and does not sample the merchandise.

The large numbers around the established settlements in and around Richlands, Beulaville, and the county line would probably feel too modest to mention matters worthy of listing; but the TV towers at their top and the septic tanks at their bottom proclaim them along the forefront of community progress. New homes are for Nannie Fountain (Mrs. Harold Frazelle), Ralph Horne, Odell Simpson (Mrs. George Cowan) and Hatch's boy Orvis; another of Hatch's boys, Clarence, has re-done the old John Craft place into a very fine home. Possibly without this connection, the Banks bachelors Vernon and Burnell have developed quite a large contracting business. Near Beulaville Dinnie Lanier's grandson Emil Thigpen has sold his store and has taken over the old Merrill Brown farm near Muddy Creek; and Linster Bryan's granddaughter Ona Edwards (Mrs. H. G. Foster) is helping her husband do over the old India Davis place. And so it goes. Space does not allow mention of nearly all of the doings. Perhaps the biggest piece of local news is that Troy Shivar is getting set to beat his great grandfather Fountain's record of a vigorous offspring at age 54 with a wife nearly 48. Since this couple lack a few months of this age, this is just a trial run. Listen for further announcements.

The family book is getting widely distributed. In addition to the large libraries from New England to Florida and the universities and colleges, I have just received requests from the public library in St. Louis, and from the huge collection of the American Antiquarian Society in Worcester, Mass. Most appreciative recipient was Major Cutler, Massachusetts native on our military staff here. He noted on the family tree the shaded Cutler root (no pun intended) and said, "Oh, so that's where that old rascal was!" But of course we can establish no real relation. And the book is listed among my publications in the various Who's Who's and professional directories. Folks have been very complimentary about it.

Well, the paper's about full. It is mighty nice to know all of you. Would you like a reunion late this summer? If local relatives want to try it, write me.

Yours in the Family

Alvin M. Fountain
